

REBELS IN VADE JUAREZ; SIGHTSEERS ON BORDER

Continued From Page One.

head mountain, the American cavalry and sightseers watched the progress of the federal forces approaching the foothills of the Niguerheads, near the battlefield of last Sunday.

The federal forces formed into battle line, with cavalry scouts on the flanks and in advance. The rebels evidently believed they were almost upon the enemy. Off in the ridges to the east could be seen the rebel scouts, galloping back to Blanco's camp after having observed the federal advance. The bright moonlight playing upon the bayonets and sabres of the federalists made the night maneuver a spectacular one.

The rebels did not venture over the crest of the hill from the camp and the federal forces split, the cavalry and half the infantry swinging to the right of the mountain and the other half to the left over the ridges near Niguerhead and making straight for Blanco's troops, half of which are reported to have been killed. Governor Luis Torres, now at Cananea, is expected in Douglas tomorrow or Friday.

The wounded at Agua Prieta, as a result of the battle Sunday, appear doomed. The American physicians who were first aid stated tonight that all hope had been abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

Agua Prieta is tonight unguarded except for a small patrol.

It is believed that in case he realizes the situation, Blanco's cavalry could beat the federal foot soldiers into town, take it and gather up supplies and arms and leave before the federal infantry could reach town.

If Blanco holds his ground the battle will probably take place at daybreak, immediately on the border at international monument No. 2.

The American cavalry, both from here and San Bernardino, will be lined up at dawn.

LIMANTOUR SLIPS AWAY.

Mexican Minister of Finance Leaves Long Statement for Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Mexican minister of finance departed this afternoon for Mexico, he said. Just when there began to be some speculation as to why his stay first announced for two days should now be running into the second week, he slipped quietly from his hotel and took a train.

Senator Limantour left a long typewritten statement, and the clerk at the desk of the hotel said he had inquired particularly about the sailing on or about March 26 of all lines running between Havana and Vera Cruz. On his arrival from Europe, he said he intended to go home by way of Florida, Havana, Yucatan and Vera Cruz and that he hoped to arrive in Mexico City within ten or twelve days from the date he left New York.

"There have been frequent and persistent rumors," his farewell statement reads in part, "that I would not return to Mexico and that if I did it would not be to assume the duties of the office. I have tried to fill acceptably for some years. It affords me pleasure to determine that I am returning to Mexico, not only to assume those duties, but also to do whatever may be within my sphere of action to improve the general conditions of my country."

"How long will the insurgent last? Quelin asks? Who knows? I have had the attitude and acts of Americans as well as Mexicans. I am sure that the American people never will forget that Mexico is a country of wonderful resources and possibilities, but that their fullest development can never be attained except through the complete cooperation of everyone who has the best interests of Mexico at heart. Shall not all such unite in one determined effort to bring about the desired result? This is my last and most serious word to the American people."

The minister's comments on the press on his personal treatment of him, but chides it for printing sensational accounts of conditions in Mexico, to which in large part he attributed the present disturbance. For many years, he declared, President Diaz had told his visitors that "all he desired to have was a country that was the truth; he has discouraged fulsome praise as much as muck-raking."

"And this is all," says Senator Limantour for himself, "that I ask of the press of the United States or of any country dealing with Mexico—the truth."

FIGHT IS EXPECTED.

Berthold and Leyva Leave Mexicali With Insurgent Troops.

MEXICALI, Mex., March 15.—The rebel army of 200 men, headed by Generals Berthold and Leyva, marched out of Mexicali last night in the direction of Ensenada, where the intention of giving battle to any Mexican federalists they may find. It was not announced how far the rebel column would move in search of a clash with the government troops. The rebels encamped today at La Paz, about twenty-five miles southwest of Mexicali.

General Berthold said he would promptly attack the small force of federalists said to be holding the narrow mountain defile which commands the only route to Ensenada. He expressed confidence in being able to defeat this detachment, but added that he did not expect to get back alive.

Reliable reports were received at Mexicali last night that the Mexican government had started a force of 750 men from Ensenada with the purpose of giving battle to the rebels at the earliest opportunity. The rebels will be badly outnumbered in any encounter with the federal troops.

The offensive movement of the rebels is the result of the continued demands of the men under Berthold and Leyva for action. They have been impatiently waiting for Mexican federal developments and lately their demands for a fight have become insistent.

General Stanley, with an independent division of forty men, all Americans, has gone eastward in the direction of the border town of Algodones. Most of Stanley's men are former United States army regulars or others who have seen military service.

Cautioners in the vicinity of Algodones say the Mexican government has sent arms to that town and that a fight is likely to occur there.

DIVISION NOW IN CAMP.

General Carter Moves Into Tent and Says "Nothing but Maneuvers."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 15.—When the last battery of artillery arrives here from Fort D. A. Russell, probably tomorrow, General Carter's division will be complete.

The Ninth cavalry (colored), from Fort

Myers, is expected to arrive here tomorrow. The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

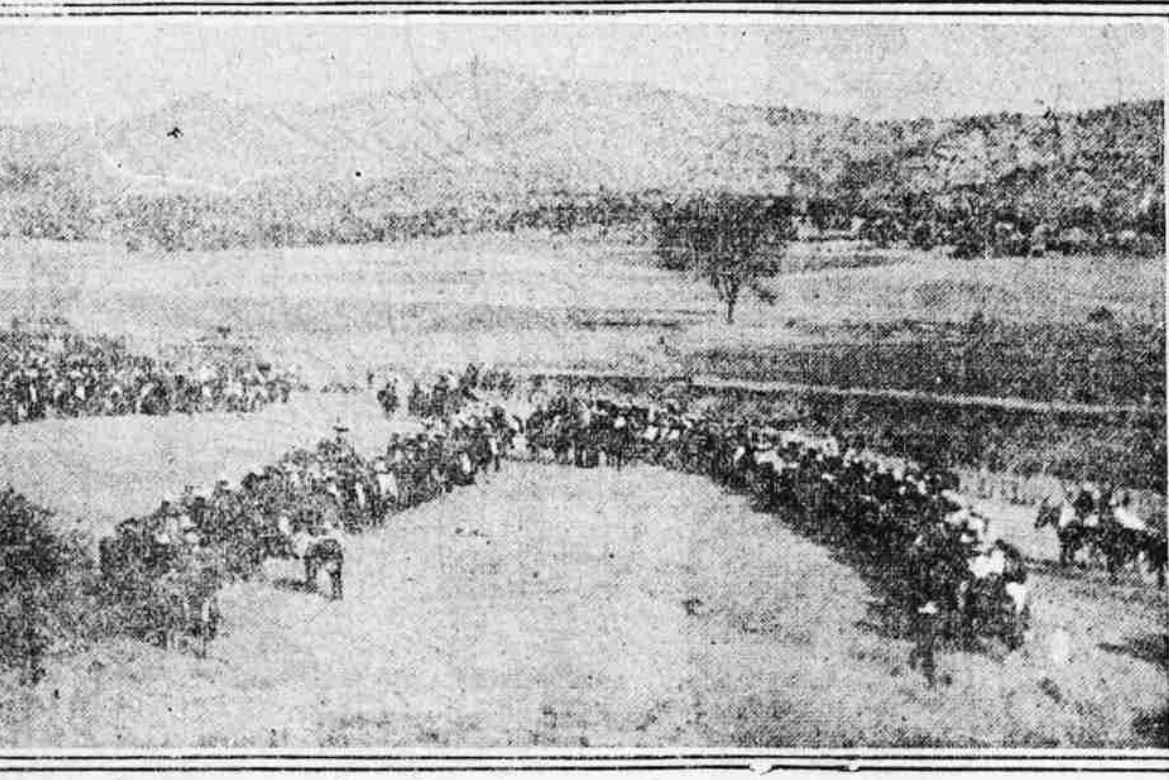

The division will be complete.

The division will be complete.

REBELS OPERATING AGAINST JUAREZ

Rebel Raiders Drawn Up at Juarez.

ASSEMBLING THE INSURGENT ARMY.

abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

Agua Prieta is tonight unguarded except for a small patrol.

It is believed that in case he realizes the situation, Blanco's cavalry could beat the federal foot soldiers into town, take it and gather up supplies and arms and leave before the federal infantry could reach town.

If Blanco holds his ground the battle will probably take place at daybreak, immediately on the border at international monument No. 2.

The American cavalry, both from here and San Bernardino, will be lined up at dawn.

LIMANTOUR SLIPS AWAY.

Mexican Minister of Finance Leaves Long Statement for Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Mexican minister of finance departed this afternoon for Mexico, he said. Just when there began to be some speculation as to why his stay first announced for two days should now be running into the second week, he slipped quietly from his hotel and took a train.

Senator Limantour left a long typewritten statement, and the clerk at the desk of the hotel said he had inquired particularly about the sailing on or about March 26 of all lines running between Havana and Vera Cruz. On his arrival from Europe, he said he intended to go home by way of Florida, Havana, Yucatan and Vera Cruz and that he hoped to arrive in Mexico City within ten or twelve days from the date he left New York.

"There have been frequent and persistent rumors," his farewell statement reads in part, "that I would not return to Mexico and that if I did it would not be to assume the duties of the office. I have tried to fill acceptably for some years. It affords me pleasure to determine that I am returning to Mexico, not only to assume those duties, but also to do whatever may be within my sphere of action to improve the general conditions of my country."

"How long will the insurgent last? Quelin asks? Who knows? I have had the attitude and acts of Americans as well as Mexicans. I am sure that the American people never will forget that Mexico is a country of wonderful resources and possibilities, but that their fullest development can never be attained except through the complete cooperation of everyone who has the best interests of Mexico at heart. Shall not all such unite in one determined effort to bring about the desired result? This is my last and most serious word to the American people."

The minister's comments on the press on his personal treatment of him, but chides it for printing sensational accounts of conditions in Mexico, to which in large part he attributed the present disturbance. For many years, he declared, President Diaz had told his visitors that "all he desired to have was a country that was the truth; he has discouraged fulsome praise as much as muck-raking."

"And this is all," says Senator Limantour for himself, "that I ask of the press of the United States or of any country dealing with Mexico—the truth."

FIGHT IS EXPECTED.

Berthold and Leyva Leave Mexicali With Insurgent Troops.

MEXICALI, Mex., March 15.—The rebel army of 200 men, headed by Generals Berthold and Leyva, marched out of Mexicali last night in the direction of Ensenada, where the intention of giving battle to any Mexican federalists they may find. It was not announced how far the rebel column would move in search of a clash with the government troops. The rebels encamped today at La Paz, about twenty-five miles southwest of Mexicali.

General Berthold said he would promptly attack the small force of federalists said to be holding the narrow mountain defile which commands the only route to Ensenada. He expressed confidence in being able to defeat this detachment, but added that he did not expect to get back alive.

Reliable reports were received at Mexicali last night that the Mexican government had started a force of 750 men from Ensenada with the purpose of giving battle to the rebels at the earliest opportunity. The rebels will be badly abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

Agua Prieta is tonight unguarded except for a small patrol.

It is believed that in case he realizes the situation, Blanco's cavalry could beat the federal foot soldiers into town, take it and gather up supplies and arms and leave before the federal infantry could reach town.

If Blanco holds his ground the battle will probably take place at daybreak, immediately on the border at international monument No. 2.

The American cavalry, both from here and San Bernardino, will be lined up at dawn.

LIMANTOUR SLIPS AWAY.

Mexican Minister of Finance Leaves Long Statement for Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Mexican minister of finance departed this afternoon for Mexico, he said. Just when there began to be some speculation as to why his stay first announced for two days should now be running into the second week, he slipped quietly from his hotel and took a train.

Senator Limantour left a long typewritten statement, and the clerk at the desk of the hotel said he had inquired particularly about the sailing on or about March 26 of all lines running between Havana and Vera Cruz. On his arrival from Europe, he said he intended to go home by way of Florida, Havana, Yucatan and Vera Cruz and that he hoped to arrive in Mexico City within ten or twelve days from the date he left New York.

"There have been frequent and persistent rumors," his farewell statement reads in part, "that I would not return to Mexico and that if I did it would not be to assume the duties of the office. I have tried to fill acceptably for some years. It affords me pleasure to determine that I am returning to Mexico, not only to assume those duties, but also to do whatever may be within my sphere of action to improve the general conditions of my country."

"How long will the insurgent last? Quelin asks? Who knows? I have had the attitude and acts of Americans as well as Mexicans. I am sure that the American people never will forget that Mexico is a country of wonderful resources and possibilities, but that their fullest development can never be attained except through the complete cooperation of everyone who has the best interests of Mexico at heart. Shall not all such unite in one determined effort to bring about the desired result? This is my last and most serious word to the American people."

The minister's comments on the press on his personal treatment of him, but chides it for printing sensational accounts of conditions in Mexico, to which in large part he attributed the present disturbance. For many years, he declared, President Diaz had told his visitors that "all he desired to have was a country that was the truth; he has discouraged fulsome praise as much as muck-raking."

"And this is all," says Senator Limantour for himself, "that I ask of the press of the United States or of any country dealing with Mexico—the truth."

FIGHT IS EXPECTED.

Berthold and Leyva Leave Mexicali With Insurgent Troops.

MEXICALI, Mex., March 15.—The rebel army of 200 men, headed by Generals Berthold and Leyva, marched out of Mexicali last night in the direction of Ensenada, where the intention of giving battle to any Mexican federalists they may find. It was not announced how far the rebel column would move in search of a clash with the government troops. The rebels encamped today at La Paz, about twenty-five miles southwest of Mexicali.

General Berthold said he would promptly attack the small force of federalists said to be holding the narrow mountain defile which commands the only route to Ensenada. He expressed confidence in being able to defeat this detachment, but added that he did not expect to get back alive.

Reliable reports were received at Mexicali last night that the Mexican government had started a force of 750 men from Ensenada with the purpose of giving battle to the rebels at the earliest opportunity. The rebels will be badly abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

Agua Prieta is tonight unguarded except for a small patrol.

It is believed that in case he realizes the situation, Blanco's cavalry could beat the federal foot soldiers into town, take it and gather up supplies and arms and leave before the federal infantry could reach town.

If Blanco holds his ground the battle will probably take place at daybreak, immediately on the border at international monument No. 2.

The American cavalry, both from here and San Bernardino, will be lined up at dawn.

LIMANTOUR SLIPS AWAY.

Mexican Minister of Finance Leaves Long Statement for Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Mexican minister of finance departed this afternoon for Mexico, he said. Just when there began to be some speculation as to why his stay first announced for two days should now be running into the second week, he slipped quietly from his hotel and took a train.

Senator Limantour left a long typewritten statement, and the clerk at the desk of the hotel said he had inquired particularly about the sailing on or about March 26 of all lines running between Havana and Vera Cruz. On his arrival from Europe, he said he intended to go home by way of Florida, Havana, Yucatan and Vera Cruz and that he hoped to arrive in Mexico City within ten or twelve days from the date he left New York.

"There have been frequent and persistent rumors," his farewell statement reads in part, "that I would not return to Mexico and that if I did it would not be to assume the duties of the office. I have tried to fill acceptably for some years. It affords me pleasure to determine that I am returning to Mexico, not only to assume those duties, but also to do whatever may be within my sphere of action to improve the general conditions of my country."

"How long will the insurgent last? Quelin asks? Who knows? I have had the attitude and acts of Americans as well as Mexicans. I am sure that the American people never will forget that Mexico is a country of wonderful resources and possibilities, but that their fullest development can never be attained except through the complete cooperation of everyone who has the best interests of Mexico at heart. Shall not all such unite in one determined effort to bring about the desired result? This is my last and most serious word to the American people."

The minister's comments on the press on his personal treatment of him, but chides it for printing sensational accounts of conditions in Mexico, to which in large part he attributed the present disturbance. For many years, he declared, President Diaz had told his visitors that "all he desired to have was a country that was the truth; he has discouraged fulsome praise as much as muck-raking."

"And this is all," says Senator Limantour for himself, "that I ask of the press of the United States or of any country dealing with Mexico—the truth."

FIGHT IS EXPECTED.

Berthold and Leyva Leave Mexicali With Insurgent Troops.

MEXICALI, Mex., March 15.—The rebel army of 200 men, headed by Generals Berthold and Leyva, marched out of Mexicali last night in the direction of Ensenada, where the intention of giving battle to any Mexican federalists they may find. It was not announced how far the rebel column would move in search of a clash with the government troops. The rebels encamped today at La Paz, about twenty-five miles southwest of Mexicali.

General Berthold said he would promptly attack the small force of federalists said to be holding the narrow mountain defile which commands the only route to Ensenada. He expressed confidence in being able to defeat this detachment, but added that he did not expect to get back alive.

Reliable reports were received at Mexicali last night that the Mexican government had started a force of 750 men from Ensenada with the purpose of giving battle to the rebels at the earliest opportunity. The rebels will be badly abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

Agua Prieta is tonight unguarded except for a small patrol.

It is believed that in case he realizes the situation, Blanco's cavalry could beat the federal foot soldiers into town, take it and gather up supplies and arms and leave before the federal infantry could reach town.

If Blanco holds his ground the battle will probably take place at daybreak, immediately on the border at international monument No. 2.

The American cavalry, both from here and San Bernardino, will be lined up at dawn.

LIMANTOUR SLIPS AWAY.

Mexican Minister of Finance Leaves Long Statement for Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Mexican minister of finance departed this afternoon for Mexico, he said. Just when there began to be some speculation as to why his stay first announced for two days should now be running into the second week, he slipped quietly from his hotel and took a train.

Senator Limantour left a long typewritten statement, and the clerk at the desk of the hotel said he had inquired particularly about the sailing on or about March 26 of all lines running between Havana and Vera Cruz. On his arrival from Europe, he said he intended to go home by way of Florida, Havana, Yucatan and Vera Cruz and that he hoped to arrive in Mexico City within ten or twelve days from the date he left New York.

"There have been frequent and persistent rumors," his farewell statement reads in part, "that I would not return to Mexico and that if I did it would not be to assume the duties of the office. I have tried to fill acceptably for some years. It affords me pleasure to determine that I am returning to Mexico, not only to assume those duties, but also to do whatever may be within my sphere of action to improve the general conditions of my country."

"How long will the insurgent last? Quelin asks? Who knows? I have had the attitude and acts of Americans as well as Mexicans. I am sure that the American people never will forget that Mexico is a country of wonderful resources and possibilities, but that their fullest development can never be attained except through the complete cooperation of everyone who has the best interests of Mexico at heart. Shall not all such unite in one determined effort to bring about the desired result? This is my last and most serious word to the American people."

The minister's comments on the press on his personal treatment of him, but chides it for printing sensational accounts of conditions in Mexico, to which in large part he attributed the present disturbance. For many years, he declared, President Diaz had told his visitors that "all he desired to have was a country that was the truth; he has discouraged fulsome praise as much as muck-raking."

"And this is all," says Senator Limantour for himself, "that I ask of the press of the United States or of any country dealing with Mexico—the truth."

FIGHT IS EXPECTED.

Berthold and Leyva Leave Mexicali With Insurgent Troops.

MEXICALI, Mex., March 15.—The rebel army of 200 men, headed by Generals Berthold and Leyva, marched out of Mexicali last night in the direction of Ensenada, where the intention of giving battle to any Mexican federalists they may find. It was not announced how far the rebel column would move in search of a clash with the government troops. The rebels encamped today at La Paz, about twenty-five miles southwest of Mexicali.

General Berthold said he would promptly attack the small force of federalists said to be holding the narrow mountain defile which commands the only route to Ensenada. He expressed confidence in being able to defeat this detachment, but added that he did not expect to get back alive.

Reliable reports were received at Mexicali last night that the Mexican government had started a force of 750 men from Ensenada with the purpose of giving battle to the rebels at the earliest opportunity. The rebels will be badly abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

Agua Prieta is tonight unguarded except for a small patrol.

It is believed that in case he realizes the situation, Blanco's cavalry could beat the federal foot soldiers into town, take it and gather up supplies and arms and leave before the federal infantry could reach town.

If Blanco holds his ground the battle will probably take place at daybreak, immediately on the border at international monument No. 2.

The American cavalry, both from here and San Bernardino, will be lined up at dawn.

LIMANTOUR SLIPS AWAY.

Mexican Minister of Finance Leaves Long Statement for Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Mexican minister of finance departed this afternoon for Mexico, he said. Just when there began to be some speculation as to why his stay first announced for two days should now be running into the second week, he slipped quietly from his hotel and took a train.

Senator Limantour left a long typewritten statement, and the clerk at the desk of the hotel said he had inquired particularly about the sailing on or about March 26 of all lines running between Havana and Vera Cruz. On his arrival from Europe, he said he intended to go home by way of Florida, Havana, Yucatan and Vera Cruz and that he hoped to arrive in Mexico City within ten or twelve days from the date he left New York.

"There have been frequent and persistent rumors," his farewell statement reads in part, "that I would not return to Mexico and that if I did it would not be to assume the duties of the office. I have tried to fill acceptably for some years. It affords me pleasure to determine that I am returning to Mexico, not only to assume those duties, but also to do whatever may be within my sphere of action to improve the general conditions of my country."

"How long will the insurgent last? Quelin asks? Who knows? I have had the attitude and acts of Americans as well as Mexicans. I am sure that the American people never will forget that Mexico is a country of wonderful resources and possibilities, but that their fullest development can never be attained except through the complete cooperation of everyone who has the best interests of Mexico at heart. Shall not all such unite in one determined effort to bring about the desired result? This is my last and most serious word to the American people."

The minister's comments on the press on his personal treatment of him, but chides it for printing sensational accounts of conditions in Mexico, to which in large part he attributed the present disturbance. For many years, he declared, President Diaz had told his visitors that "all he desired to have was a country that was the truth; he has discouraged fulsome praise as much as muck-raking."

"And this is all," says Senator Limantour for himself, "that I ask of the press of the United States or of any country dealing with Mexico—the truth."

FIGHT IS EXPECTED.

Berthold and Leyva Leave Mexicali With Insurgent Troops.

MEXICALI, Mex., March 15.—The rebel army of 200 men, headed by Generals Berthold and Leyva, marched out of Mexicali last night in the direction of Ensenada, where the intention of giving battle to any Mexican federalists they may find. It was not announced how far the rebel column would move in search of a clash with the government troops. The rebels encamped today at La Paz, about twenty-five miles southwest of Mexicali.

General Berthold said he would promptly attack the small force of federalists said to be holding the narrow mountain defile which commands the only route to Ensenada. He expressed confidence in being able to defeat this detachment, but added that he did not expect to get back alive.

Reliable reports were received at Mexicali last night that the Mexican government had started a force of 750 men from Ensenada with the purpose of giving battle to the rebels at the earliest opportunity. The rebels will be badly abandoned of moving the injured to this side in order to give them the benefit of American surgery, as such authority must come from Washington. One of the wounded has contracted erysipelas.

The cause of the other half of the federalists toward Blanco's camp this evening was the result of an attempt on the part of two men to enter the camp. They had crossed the line and were traveling on horseback toward the foothills near the Niguerheads when they suddenly encountered about fifty insurgents in hiding. The Americans turned and galloped away, when the insurgents fired upon them with rifles and machine guns. This firing was heard and caused the exodus of the federalists.

Blood Humors

It is important that you should now rid your blood of those impure, poisonous, effete matters that have accumulated